

LEARNING THROUGH CONTEMPORARY ART

ART 240 SUMMER 2017 ONLINE 8 Week course, June 13-August 4, 2016

By looking at how contemporary artists do their research, strategize, and make artworks, students in this class will learn about arts-based approaches to learning. This course is not a survey or history of contemporary art, rather it is an in-depth examination of how a variety of artists do what they do; and how their artistic strategies lend themselves to other ways of knowing in the world. Unlike a traditional course where reading and writing is the main way that ideas are exchanged, in this course students are expected to present their ideas through video-making similar to the videos that will be examined in this course.

Image: Mona Hatoum. Road Works (1985-95).